This course investigates what deviance is, how this social category of action is both constructed and deconstructed, and how groups of people interact when they classify the same behaviors in different manners. We will examine different social reactions to these activities and how these responses shape understandings of others and ourselves. To help achieve these goals, we will discuss and apply several different theories sociologists use to think about and research deviant behavior.

Readings

There is no textbook for this course. All assigned readings will be available on the course Sakai site. You are expected to read all of the assigned material for each class and arrive ready to contribute to class discussion.

Attendance

While attendance will not be taken, there will be frequent quizzes relating to the reading material for the day. More information about these quizzes is below in the Grading section.

If you expect to miss one or two quizzes, please use the University absence reporting website https://sims.rutgers.edu/ssra/ to indicate the date and reason for your absence. An email is automatically sent to me.

If you must miss an exam, it is your responsibility to contact me. Except for in rare cases, you must begin the rescheduling process no later than 24 hours after the exam. Failure to do so forfeits your opportunity to make up this grade.

Grading

Papers: 30%
Each student is to submit two of the three papers listed below. Each is to be 3-4 pages in length. Deadlines are listed for each individual paper. 10% will be deducted for each day after the deadline papers have been submitted.
• Paper One: Describe a social process in which a specific behavior was reclassified by a group as either newly deviant or no longer deviant. Due at 6pm on Tuesday, October 10th. Be prepared to describe your paper briefly in that day’s class.

• Paper Two: Outline a potential research project that investigates either the classification of deviance or the circumstances under which people commit acts considered by some to be deviant. Due at 6pm on Tuesday, November 7th. Worksheets (to be discussed in class) are to be turned in with paper, but do not go toward the page count. Be prepared to describe your paper briefly in that day’s class.

• Paper Three: Select a research or review article from a peer-reviewed academic journal that describes a group seen by others as deviant. Take (and cite!) material from this article and other sources to apply three theories discussed in class to the behavior of a specific group of people. Due at 6pm on Thursday, December 7th. Be prepared to describe your paper briefly during class on Tuesday, December 12th.

Midterm Exam: 20%
A midterm exam will be given on Thursday, October 19th.

Final Exam: 25%
A cumulative final exam will be given on Tuesday, December 19th at 8:00pm.

Quizzes: 15%
Before the instruction begins in most meetings, a brief quiz will be conducted about the readings assigned for that day. These quizzes will focus on main ideas and your thoughts about them, not obscure facts buried in the readings. The lowest five quiz grades will be dropped. As answers will often be discussed immediately after completion, those who arrive after the quizzes have been handed in will not be able to take the quiz for that day.

Participation: 10%
I expect each student to come to class ready to contribute.

Modifications

I reserve the right to make changes to any part of this syllabus if I think they will help students better understand the material. Any such modifications will be announced both in class and on Sakai.

Contacting Me

I have included my office hours above. Please let me know if you are unable to attend these, and I would be glad to make other arrangements with you.

The best way to contact me is through email. I will do my best to respond to messages within 24 hours, excluding weekends. In order to catch my attention, I suggest beginning the subject line with “SOC 304.” If I do not respond within 24 hours, please double check the address to which you sent your message and send it a second time. Please be sure to include your name somewhere in the text of your email.

I will schedule a few times during the semester when I will be in the chat room on the course Sakai site and available to answer questions.

University and Department Policies

Academic Integrity
Any form of academic dishonesty will not be tolerated in this class. This includes, but is not limited to: plagiarism, cheating, fabrication, and preventing others from obtaining information/material. Academic dishonesty also includes assisting others engaged in these actions. You may find the university’s full academic integrity policy at http://academicintegrity.rutgers.edu/academic-integrity-at-rutgers/ and information about violations and sanctions at http://academicintegrity.rutgers.edu/academic-integrity-policy/levels-of-violations-and-sanctions/. I take academic integrity seriously and will not hesitate to report a suspected breach to the Dean of Students.

Student Conduct
The Department of Sociology encourages the free exchange of ideas in a safe, supportive, and productive classroom environment. To facilitate such an environment, students and faculty must act with mutual respect and common courtesy. Thus, behavior that distracts students and faculty is not acceptable. Such behavior includes cell phone use, surfing the internet, checking email, text messaging, listening to music, reading newspapers, leaving and returning, leaving early without permission, discourteous remarks, and other behaviors specified by individual instructors. Courteous and lawful expression of disagreement with the ideas of the instructor or fellow students is, of course, permitted.

If a student engages in disruptive behavior, the instructor, following the University Code of Student Conduct, may direct the student to leave class for the remainder of the class period. Serious verbal assaults, harassment, or defamation of the instructor or other students can lead to university disciplinary proceedings. The University Code of Student Conduct is available at: http://policies.rutgers.edu/sites/policies/files/10.2.11%20-%20current%20_0.pdf.

Disabilities
I am committed to providing reasonable accommodations for all persons with disabilities. If you would like to make arrangements with me, please contact me during the first week of class. Please note that you must also contact the Rutgers Office of Disability Services. More information about this group and how to request accommodations can be found at: https://ods.rutgers.edu/.

Diversity Statement
The Rutgers Sociology Department strives to create an environment that supports and affirms diversity in all manifestations, including race, ethnicity, gender, sexual orientation, religion, age, social class, disability status, region/country of origin, and political orientation. We also celebrate diversity of theoretical and methodological perspectives among our faculty and students and seek to create an atmosphere of respect and mutual dialogue. We have zero tolerance for violations of these principles and have instituted clear and respectful procedures for responding to such grievances.
